

The coalition for food systems transformation through agroecology

Our role

The Coalition aims to support food systems transformation through agroecology and the implementation of country pathways in three areas:

Facilitating co-creation and exchange of knowledge

Promoting increased investments in agroecology

Seeking political engagement and commitment to agroecology

Members

As of May 2023, coalition members comprise around 50 countries and regional commissions and more than 110 organisations, including farmers organisations, research institutions, indigenous peoples' organisations, UN agencies, philanthropic foundations and civil society organisations.

“ We are convinced that agroecology is an essential solution for the transformation of food systems towards healthy, resilient, equitable and sustainable systems. ”
